

THEY COULDN'T AGREE

Demo-Pop Conference Committee Met and Exploded.

PATRIOTISM AND OFFICE

Steadily Held to the Hearts of Reformers.

The Democratic and Populist conference committees met according to agreement yesterday and adjourned promptly, according to disagreement, as was mentioned in yesterday's Eagle. The Populist committee, led by Kirkpatrick of Wichita township, told their Democratic counterparts how reform must have offices to maintain life and protested against the divy decided upon by the Democratic committee.

The Democrats insisted that they wanted district judge, county clerk, surveyor and commissioner in return for the Democratic vote of the county. The Populists said that this number was enough and began to haggle about it.

Kirkpatrick led out. He said the Populist party furnished the only life the Democratic contingent in Kansas had and that the reform party was really entitled to all the offices in sight except possibly judge.

"We will not give up all these good offices," he said. "We want office to go along with our patriotism. Patriotism without office is a sounding brass or tinkling cymbal." With out the prospect of office he could not see the propriety of being in politics at all. He insisted that the Democrats in Kansas were a hungry lot of political mercenaries and would be found at the kitchen door of the party that would throw out the most to eat.

WON'T NOMINATE SEALOCK

Pops Agree to Division on Constitution.

The Pops, after the explosion of the session, got together and agreed if they could have commissioner that they wouldn't nominate Mr. Sealock again.

HERE COMES THE HOOKAH

And With Its Perfumed Incense, Dreams and Contentment.

Adolph Huey is not only one of the most popular of gentlemen, but in being appreciative of friendship, is appreciated by more friends than anybody. Taciturn and generous as a neighbor, bright and enterprising as a citizen, he never lacks for admirers or supporters, while he never stands in need of defenders. The managing editor of the Eagle, having at some time, expressed the desire for the possession of a genuine Turkish hookah, such as adorns the summit in his palace, found upon his table yesterday morning just such a hookah. Adolph Huey had placed it there. It had been ordered by him from a border-land of the Ottoman Empire, sparkling as a miniature caught in a noose of morning sunlight, with its star-bespangled bowl of rosy Bohemian glass, and its head of bright silver, all surrounded with a delicately carved meerschaum calyx, and three amber mouthpieces attached to flexible infundibular feet and feet in length. It's a great scheme, and the friends of the aforesaid editor in making either mutual or eventful calls need not feel constrained to bring along cigars, for Huey's hookah will be already charged and lighted.

IMPROVING THE RACE TRACK

Two Hundred Loads of Dirt Put On It.

Colonel Toler is remodeling the race tracks and getting the grounds in good condition for next fall races. Already he has had more than 200 loads of dirt distributed along the tracks and some other improvements made. Colonel Toler will make it the finest track in Kansas.

WAS A REGULAR HOLD UP

One Farmer Who Wanted to Fix Up for Poverty Social.

"Say, did you ever attend a poverty social? If not you ought to, for at one held at the Palace block last night the Redheads worked their schemes to a finish. Only 3 cents admission; ice cream 3 cents per. etc. But nothing said as to how much it would cost to get out. Why, it was just a regular hold-up. The hold-up! They would just arrest a fellow for wearing a 'bolled shirt' and fine him from 3 to 5 cents; and to be wearing a gold ring and store clothes! Oh, it was just perfectly awful! Men have but few rights left. Only, perhaps, to exist."

The Masonic home board met last Tues.

Babies

Take Cuticura Resolvent

Because it is so pure and wholesome that mothers can give it freely to children of all ages. It cures and cleanses the blood, and is of the greatest value in speedily curing disordered bowels, eczema, scabies, and irritations, when taken in connection with hot baths of CUTICURA SOAP, and gentle anointings with CUTICURA, the great skin cure and purifier of emollients.

"The Least Hair Casts a Shadow."

A single drop of poison blood will, unless checked in time, make the whole impure.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is the great leader in blood purifiers.

It casts no shadow, but brings sunshine and health into every household.

Scrofula—"My son had scrofula bunches on different parts of his body. An operation helped him some—but after taking Hood's Sarsaparilla they disappeared entirely." Mrs. Lewis A. Carpenter, 51 Wadsworth St., Hartford, Ct.

Nervousness—"My mother suffered from nervous weakness and loss of appetite; my trouble was impure blood, disordered stomach and sleeplessness. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured both." John V. Gibbart, Box 170, Middletown, N. Y.

No honorable druggist will ever try to substitute anything for Hood's Sarsaparilla.

The band is one of the best ever organized in the city, being composed chiefly of professional musicians. Lovers of music in this city should give the band their hearty support and help to make it one of the best in the west. In return the band will continue to delight the citizens of Wichita with their concerts.

BURRELL JURY DISAGREES

Could Not Get Together on the Facts, and Was Discharged.

The jury in the case of Jack Burrell against the Santa Fe railway could not agree and were discharged at 1:30 yesterday, after having been out since Friday morning. The jury was called down and quitted by Judge Dals. The foreman said in his opinion it would be impossible for them to agree, as there had been no change in the balloting since yesterday morning. The disagreement was not on a question of law but of facts. This has been a very hard fought case, having been on trial since Wednesday. Burrell is suing the company for $15,000 damages which he received at Newton last winter. He claims the conductor pushed him through a vestibule door and that he fell partly under the train. His arm was crushed so badly that it had to be amputated, and he was otherwise injured. The company claims that Burrell was drunk and fell under the train as he was attempting to board it.

MRS. BAMBERGER

Writes to Her Friends From South Dakota.

Mrs. Bamberger, who went to Hot Springs, South Dakota, to fill concert engagements for the summer, writes of the place as follows:

"Hot Springs, S. D., June 15, 1899. To the Editor of the Eagle. "Like every Kansan who ever lived in Wichita the sight of a copy of the Eagle comes like the face of a friend to greet me. So my copy has greeted me. So many have asked for a line from me that a general letter will answer most of the inquiries. This place is delightful. It is high—2,400 feet above sea level. No malaria, no flies, no mosquitoes. Eat, walk, bathe and eat some more. The town is scattered over the hills and down the canon. The hotels and bath houses are of course the center of a visitor's attraction. Everybody acquires rosy cheeks and a good, healthy color who has been here a while. The plunge bath is a natural curiosity. Hundreds of springs of an alkaline nature at a temperature of 95 degrees, makes a bath which is good for rheumatism and kindred troubles. There is every modern improvement owing to the immense water power—electric light and power are easily had from the falls. Wind Cave, Sylvan lake and many points of interest afford a great variety of interesting places to visit. The Bad Lands are near by—so graphically described in Theodore Roosevelt's ranch articles in the Century a few years ago. They certainly look queer—white sand hills and sage brush.

"Hoping this will give an idea of this beautiful vale of Minnekata, I remain, sincerely

"FRANCES H. BAMBERGER."

GOV. STANLEY'S ADDRESS

Speech at University Thursday Night Complimented.

The address of Governor Stanley at the Friends' university last Thursday was the subject of an unusual amount of favorable comment. Many who heard it pronounce the speech the best that Mr. Stanley has ever made. His subject was "The Value of Individuality."

AT EXPORT RATES

Grain Shippers Change Lading Bills of Wheat Enroute.

TO SECURE EXPORT RATES

Judge Reagan Writes Suggesting a Remedy.

Judge Reagan, chairman of the Texas Commerce commission, who has been before the Interstate Commerce commission at St. Louis in the interest of adjustment of rates on corn and wheat from Kansas, Texas and the west to seaboard, for export and local consumption, writes to a Wichita grain man for information on the action of the Trans-Mississippi congress on the question. In the course of his letter, Judge Reagan says: "In the first place, the rate which has been adopted is open to very grave abuse. For instance, we are told that in making an export rate there is no direct check to show that the grain which is billed for export goes into foreign countries. That being so, it is competent, if men will do it, to bill grain for export and on the way to the seacoast, or wherever it is going, to take up the bills and put it into local consumption at export rates. So that any railroad choosing to violate its duty to its customers and to other railroads may combine with customers to ship any amount of grain on export rates, take up the bills of lading and put it into local consumption in opposition to grain shipped on the regular local rates. That is, those who may be thus favored will have their grain shipped at about one-third of what it costs to ship for local consumption. Anything that leads to such a condition of things ought to be prevented, because so long as human nature remains as it is, when the temptation to cupidity is so strongly presented, that temptation is not likely to be resisted. Besides this, the making of export rates so much below the cost of transportation for local consumption is unjust to the public. It is evident that the rates which we are told prevail now on export traffic are insufficient to afford just compensation to the carriers, or else, if it is sufficient, the rates for local consumption are very greatly excessive. Therefore, it cannot in that way be justified; and if the grain for export is carried below the cost of transportation, and the revenues of the roads are to be preserved, it becomes necessary to tax the people who ship for local consumption to pay for the carriage of grain billed for export. So that it involves the principle of making one part of the people pay for the cost of the carriage of the goods of another part of the people, and in that particular case it would be taxing the people of this country for the benefit of those of other countries where the grain, or its products, is to be consumed. Now, then, I might give an illustration of this by referring to the condition of things existing between the western states and the coast.

"Wheat from any of the common point territory of Texas, which is very large to Galveston is 15 cents per 100 for local consumption, and where it goes over more than one line it may be 17 1/2 cents per 100. From Kansas City to Galveston it is 10 cents per 100. And from Wichita I understand it is 25 cents per 100.

"Now, we are told competition makes this condition of things. The competition is between the railroads themselves. It is true that that competition may be more or less affected by the foreign markets, but if we are to mingle, if we are to blend the railroad rates with the ocean rates, we can never have a permanent system of rates, because of the continual fluctuation of the ocean rates, to which the railroads try to conform, and in trying to conform to them they disturb and break down the relations of rates at home.

"RATES OUGHT TO BE SAME. "It seems to me that any system of rates that is to attain the ends of justice ought to make the rates for export and the rates for local consumption the same, and that any system which is to secure regularity and justice should be separate entirely, the inland from the ocean rates. I do not see why this may not be done. I understand that we go on from time to time trying to patch up some bad condition of things, instead of trying to reach a basis that will attain the ends of justice, secure the revenues of the railroads and be fair to all. We attempt to attach a system of railroad rates and we cultivate a condition of anarchy, a condition of war of rates between the roads.

"If we can adopt a system which will make the rates the same and separate them from mere ocean transportation, then the railroads may not regard the coast and the competition for water rates would be a competition between the carriers by ocean. I do not see why that may not be done, and a great deal of trouble saved, and it seems to me that we might adopt a system of rates, of groups by mileage, for instance, from the eastern seaboard, a uniform system for a given distance from the seaboard; the rate should be whatever might be agreed upon as reasonable and fair, and by parallel of longitude of natural subdivisions, such as by the Ohio river, the Mississippi river and the Missouri river, but perhaps it would have to be qualified by making other intermediate places, at least between the Ohio river and the seaboard. We might make rates, and it seems to me that the railroad officials, with their active intelligence and mastery of the subject, might devise a system of rates that would enable them to make uniform rates to the different eastern seaboard ports. It will be understood, of course, that differentials might be necessary, such as were agreed upon long ago by the commission, of which I think Senator Thurman was president. If differentials can be preserved under that system, and need not interfere with the attempt to adopt such a system of rates based on groups and with the rates published to the world, so, it might be from the Gulf coast—a system of rates based on the parallel of latitude, might be adopted, the rates increasing as the distance increases, which itself would be just and fair, and the rates published, the rate uniform between the grain for export and grain for local consumption, separated from the local rates.
